Part B. CV SUMMARY

With a Degree in Environmental Sciences and Masters and Doctorate in Biodiversity, the candidate has already been working in several research groups of different institutions and research centers. He spent 6 months in the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation (CSIRO) in Canberra (Australia), one of the leading research centres worldwide; and nearly 3 years in the University of Córdoba, in the department of Soil Science, one of the most influencing research groups in the area of soil fertility and iron (Fe) soil dynamics and mineralogy. He also spent 2 years working for the Institute for Sustainable Agriculture (IAS-CSIC) in Córdoba, where he participated in the project "Design and Application of Strategies for the control of Xylella fastidiosa". Here, he was involved in the development of models for the early detection and evaluation of almond trees infected by Xylella fastidiosa. During the same period, he also collaborated in the department of Plant Physiology of the University of the Balearic Islands, in the topic "strategies to control X. fastidiosa through soil management practices and soil management strategies to mitigate climate change". He currently is Assistant Professor at the University of Valencia, where he lectures different soil science subjects and is involved in different research projects, being the most the relevant the projects:

(1) Influencia del manejo agrícola sobre la biodiversidad, el funcionamiento y las salud de los suelos mediterráneos SOILBIO (Fundación Biodiversidad); (2). HORIZON-CL6-2022-FARM2FORK-01-09: Unravelling the potential of the wheat microbiome for the development of healthier, more sustainable and resilient wheat-derived food & feed products (WHEATBIOME); (3). HORIZON-MISS-2023-SOIL-01-08: Governance and business models for living labs: rural regeneration hubs for tackling soil health challenges in the Mediterranean regions (GOV4ALL). His Doctoral Thesis, qualified with the maximum mark (Summa Cum Laude and International Mention), was considered the third Best Thesis in the University of Valencia, in the area of Sciences. Since 2013, he has focused more on sustainable agriculture, particularly in organic farming strategies and practices, and the benefits they produce on the soils' quality and health. Until now, he has been supervisor of 6 Final Degree/Master Project and has also been the supervisor of 4 students' practicum. He has published one book chapter and 17 scientific papers, published all in journals of the SCI Journal Citation Report (2 more submitted). He is the first author in 6 of them and 16 of these papers were published in journals of the first quartile (Q1) in topics like Soil Science, Agriculture and Environmental Sciences. They have received a total of 317 citations in the period 2014-2023. Daniel Sacristán Moraga has published 15 contributions to national and international conferences (oral presentations, posters, and 2 invited/keynote talks). Finally, he reviews for several prestigious international scientific journals (peer review, JCR) and is member of the Editorial Board of Frontiers in Agronomy.
